

Anne Arundel County Master Gardeners
and Crofton Community Library present
free informative workshops

Workshops are presented by Anne Arundel County Master Gardeners and are designed for novice and experienced gardeners alike.

Saving Seeds

Saturday, September 17
10-12 Crofton Library

Learn the importance of saving seeds from your garden and how to properly collect and store the seeds for the best viability for next year's plantings.

This will be a hands-on workshop.

Putting the Garden to Bed for Fall & Growing Garlic

Saturday, October 15
10-12 Crofton Library

Learn how to prepare your garden now to be ready for spring buds and blossoms as well as learning how to start a new garden from the ground up. The Growing Garlic speaker will inform us of the types of garlic and which are best for our area. There will be garlic bulbs available to take home to plant.

Workshops held at:
Crofton Community Library
1681 Reidel Rd.; Crofton, MD 21114

The University of Maryland Extension programs are open to all citizens without regard to race, color, gender, religion, national origin, sexual orientation, age, marital or parental status, or disability.